“ I can't simply utilize this forum for a specific memory as we had an entire lifetime of them. She was my best friend in life...right beside me for every milestone...loose tooth, learning to ride a bike, birthday parties, sleepovers, in the woods with our BB gun, training bra's, our first "loves" and our broken hearts. She was there beside me through it all. She understood me like no other could and I am devastated that she is gone now. We still had so many plans as we grew older like dying purple streaks in our hair on our 70th birthday just to let folks talk! Ha! She was a part of me and I her. Terry's death has forever changed who I am and oh how I miss her. One of Tee's final wishes was that we not be safe but celebrate her life and hold her memory in our hearts. Yes, my dear sister, I will do just that until the glorious day when I can hold you again. I love you Tee. There is a hole forever in my soul.

Oh Diane, I just found out. I had sent her a friend request a few months ago and never heard back. I noticed that her last post was in 22...so I just now did a Google search and found this...I can't begin to tell you how this saddens me. I'm sorry for your loss my friend. You and her have always held a special place in my heart... she, like you, was a very special person... our loss is heavens gain...
